

World Affairs Council Inland Southern California and Glocally Connected join together to bring you the film
Salam Neighbor - A View of Life in Jordon's Za'atari Refugee Camp

at
Regency University Village 10 Theater, 1201 University Ave, Riverside, CA 92507

Online ticket purchase deadline April 7 in order for the film to be shown!

April 14, 2016
7:30 – 9:10 pm

Salam Neighbor

Two filmmakers from Inland Southern California fully emersed themselves in a Syrian refugee camp in Jordon, providing an intimate look at the world's most dire humanitarian crisis. Chris Temple, director, and Zach Ingrasci, producer and director of Salam Neighbor are 2012 graduates of Claremont McKenna College. They bought and set up a tent in the Za'atari Refugee camp in Jordon to learn and record what life in the camp was like.

They share the stories of the people who are do not give up but show incredible courage, creativity, and strength in helping one another and building new lives. The stories of the human struggles are both heartbreaking and uplifting but most importantly, they put a human face on the current refugee crisis as the world struggles to develop solutions. It is also a tremendous discussion starter for the Great Decisions program "International Migration"

In order for the film to be shown in the Inland Empire, enough potential viewers must buy pre-sale tickets at <https://www.tugg.com/venues/2379> . If the audience doesn't meet the minimum threshold number and is cancelled we will announce that on the WACinlandsocal.org website and your credit card will not be charged. We're almost there...buy your ticket today!

Tickets are $9.00
<https://www.tugg.com/venues/2379>

