

WORLD AFFAIRS COUNCIL INLAND SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA AND UCR OSHER PRESENT

Windows on the World: The Rise of Populism in Europe

Tuesday, October 15
3:30-4:30 p.m.

UCR Extension Center,
1200 University Ave., Riverside

Populist parties have surged in recent years across Europe, challenging democratic systems in countries as diverse as Hungary, France, the UK, and Italy. What explains the rise of radical right parties at this moment in time, and what are the implications these new political forces have on how democracy is practiced in the region?

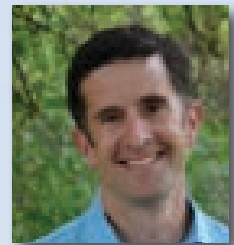

We will consider European populism in the context of immigration, welfare politics, the shift toward post-industrial economies, and the rise of social media. Beyond understanding contemporary European politics, we will consider how similar forces are supporting populist turns in the United States and elsewhere in the Americas.

REGISTRATION

- Section: 192-CCS-404
- Location: UCR Extension Center
1200 University Ave., Riverside, CA
- To reserve your space, call (951) 827-4105.
- Parking is free and secure.

SPECIAL
FEATURED
PRESENTER

STEVEN WUHS

Steven Wuhs is Assistant Provost for Internationalization and Professor of Political Science at the University of Redlands. His research and teaching work centers on the development of right parties in Mexico and Germany. He is author of Savage Democracy: Institutional Change and Party Development in Mexico (Penn State Press, 2008), and articles about candidate selection and regionalism in Europe and Latin America.